INDICT 30 IN FISH TRUST PROBE

Bay State Company Has Been Accused of Monopoly and Extortionate Prices

The Grand Jury of Suffolk County today returned to Judge Hitchcock in the Superior Criminal Court, a secret indictment against about 30 individuals, alleged to have conducted the affairs of the Bay State Fishing Company, and its subsidiary companies, as a monopoly in restraint of trade designed to prevent competition in that branch of industry.

The indictment is framed under the common law relating to conspiracy, and chapter 661 of the Acts of 1913 which makes unlawful combinations entered into for the purpose of destroying the trade or business of persons engaged in selling goods by creating a monopoly.

Upon conviction of a common law conspiracy the maximum penalty is imprisonment for not less than one the penalty prescribed by the statute to prohibit discrimination in the sale of commodities is a fine of not less than $500 or more than $5000, or by imprisonment for not less than one month or more than one year.

NEW YORK MAN PRESIDENT.

Attorney-General Attwill, who presented evidence to the Grand Jury beginning on July 8 and continuing until Aug. 1, followed substantially the line of testimony submitted to the legislative committee, and the story told to the Grand Jury was, in the main, a repetition of what occurred at the State House inquiry.

The Bay State Fishing Company was organized in September, 1914, by F. Monroe Dyer of New York, who became its president, with Herbert E. Hallett, president of the Fourth Atlantic National Bank; Galen L. Stone of Hayden, Stone & Company, bankers and brokers; Frederick C. Dumaine, treasurer of large manufacturing corporations, and Arthur Wainwright of Boston and Milton, as directors, all of whom resigned on March 5, the day after the investigating committee of the Legislature was appointed. Mr. Hallett testified before the Grand Jury, and is therefore immune from prosecution.

As a means of enabling the Bay State Fising Company to control the fish industry of New England, it appeared that eleven competing concerns were induced to join the combination, and the Bay State Fishing Company agreed for a period of five years to pay the salaries to members of such companies and firms, aggregating $78,790.10 annually.

HUGE PROFITS SHOWN.

The diversion of shipping to war purposes contributed to the successful operation of the Bay State Fishing Company after it had secured control of a substantial part of the available fish supply, and the profits for 1917 reached the sum of $1,007,000, which, after payment of dividends on first and second preferred stock, left a balance approximately of $950,000, or about 25 per cent, on the $3,000,000 of common stock turned over to Mr. Dyer when the Bay State Fishing Company entered upon its profitable career.

SHIP OFF CAPE MAY BURNED BY U-BOAT

By International News Service.

Washington, Aug. 15.—The schooner Dorothy Barrett was attacked by a German submarine yesterday afternoon, six and one-half miles from the North End lightship at Cape May, N. J., the Navy Department announced today. The crew abandoned the vessel, which soon burst into flames and was burned to the water's edge.

Shortly after the attack seaplanes appeared and dropped bombs in the general vicinity of where the U-boat had submerged. The aviators reported that bubbles were seen to rise to the surface but extreme doubt was expressed as to the probability of the submersible being destroyed.

Another Ship Sunk by U-Boat, According to an "Eyewitness"

An Atlantic Port, Aug. 15.—Another ship was added to the toll of German submersibles today, if the story told by Lesley Rowley, a Red Cross worker of Madison, Wis., is verified.

Rowley, returning to America from the front on a French liner which reached this port today, said that yesterday afternoon he was standing near the wireless operator on board the liner when a message was picked up from a vessel nearby, saying she has been attacked by a German submarine and was sinking.

3,600,000 GOING TO FRANCE

TAX RATE ADVANCE OF $3.50

Levy of $21.20 Announced by Assessors Establishes Record in City's History

Boston's new tax rate is $21.20 per thousand. This is the highest figure in the history of the city. It is an increase of $3.50 over last year's rate.

The next highest rate was in 1916, when the rate reached $17.80. The new rate of $21.20, however, is less than was generally expected, it having been persistently rumored that it would be about $21.60.

The Mayor accounts for the increase as follows:

The fact that there was no unappropriated cash in the city treasury, as against more than a million last year, accounts for 75 cents increase in the tax rate; long neglected conditions of streets and bridges, putting the burden of extensive repairs all on one year, $1.10; increase in interest on city bonds, 49 cents; increase in school appropriations, 15 cents; increased city payrolls, the one day off in three of firemen and one day off in eight of policemen, Increased cost of food and fuel in city institutions, and various appropriations, $1.01.

GREEN HARBOR HOTEL BURNED; $25,000 LOSS

Green Harbor, Aug. 15.—The Riverside Hotel, a three-story wooden structure, was burned today. Fifty guests were driven out. Help was called from Duxbury, Scituate and other towns. Four other buildings were damaged. The loss is estimated at $25,000. Mr. and Mrs. John Delano, an aged couple, lost all they owned in the fire. United States Appraiser Joe Lyons took up a collection for them. He gave a check for $25. Others gave donations of cash ranging from $10 to $100.

OIL TANKER KELLOGG MAY BE SALVAGED

Washington, Aug. 15.—There is an excellent chance that the oil tanker Frederick R. Kellogg, torpedoed by a German submarine off the Ambrose channel Tuesday night, may be salvaged, the Navy Department announced today. The vessel is still afloat, about sixteen miles off Barnegat, said the announcement, and the hopes that she may be saved are very bright.

"There can be no question of a refusal by Germany of reasonable peace proposals." Discussing the recent speech of Premier Lloyd-George, the German Foreign Secretary was further quoted as saying that "had the allies serious peace intentions they could have approached Germany through authorized persons."

Senator Chamberlain Puts in Man-Power Bill; Anti-Strike Proviso Included

By International News Service.

Washington, Aug. 15.—President Wilson has accepted the view of the allied and American military experts that the war must be fought out and won on the western and Italian fronts.

General March believes the war will be won when America has placed four million men in France—that such an army "could go through the German lines wherever we please."

The War Department plans to have eighty fighting divisions in France and eighteen reserve divisions at home by June 30, 1919.

(An American division consists of 43,000, including 27,000 "bayonets," or infantrymen.)

DRASTIC ANTI-STRIKE PROVISO.

These were the outstanding features revealed this afternoon when Senator Chamberlain, chairman of the Military Affairs Committee, reported to the Senate the new man power bill, setting the draft ages from 18 to 45.

Incidentally Senator Chamberlain gave the first official interpretation of the drastic anti-strike amendment to the measure.

It is that the American workman exempted from the draft on industrial lines is performing the same service as the man on the firing line

London, Aug. 15.—Bolshevik forces are hurriedly evacuating Moscow, according to a dispatch transmitted from Amsterdam today. The Soviet government's gold reserve, which had been stored in the basement of the Kremlin, has been removed to a secret hiding place.

(Moscow has been on the verge of a revolt for several days. Bolshevik troops have been patrolling the streets and arresting counter-revolutionary suspects by the hundreds. Lenine and Trotzky, the government heads, fled the city last week.

General Otani and Staff Leave Japan for Russia to Lead Armies of Allies

Tokio, Aug. 15.—General Otani, accompanied by his headquarters staff, has departed for Vladivostok to direct the operations of the Japanese expeditionary force in Siberia, it was learned today. He left on Monday, traveling by way of Hiroshima.

The Japanese press lauds the appointment of General Otani, saying he would make a capable commander of the allied forces.

General Kikuzo Otani is one of the foremost soldiers in Japan, and will be the ranking officer of the American and allied forces in Siberia. After the capture of the German stronghold at Taing-Tau, in China, General Otani was put in command of the garrison. He is sixty-three years old.

BRITISH GAINS IN ALBERT SECTOR

London, Aug. 15 (11 a. m.).---The Germans in the Lassigny sector are retiring across the Divette River, leaving only a screen of machine guns behind them, said a dispatch from a correspondent on the French front today. Fighting for two days in their gas masks, the French took all of Lassigny ridge, which dominates the German positions. As the French artillery is brought up the Germans will be forced back still further.

London, Aug. 15 (3:15)---The German salient that bulged into the British lines in the Hebuterne sector, north of Albert, has practically disappeared, the Reuter correspondent at the British front telegraphed this afternoon. The Germans north of the Ancre River have withdrawn as far as Hebuterne, hotly pursued and harassed by the British.

London, Aug. 15.—General Hans von Boehm, formerly commander of the German Eighth Army on the Marne, has been placed in command of all the Kaiser's forces on the Somme front, says a dispatch received from Paris this afternoon. Military experts construe the German retirement between Albert and Arras as the first application of Von Boehm's tactics.

Crown Prince Rupprecht of Bavaria has been in supreme command on the Picardy as well as the Flanders front for some time. Von Boehm has been widely known as the "retreat specialist" because of his ability for extricating his forces from tight places, as in the retreat from the Marne in July.

By International News Service.

London, Aug. 15.—Fresh gains were made by the British on the northern end of the Picardy front and the lines were advanced east of Raincourt and between Albert and Ayette, the War Office announced today. There was severe local fighting to the east of Raincourt.

A German post was rushed by the British north of Albert. Between Albert and Ayette British patrols were active and progress was made at a number of points. The total number of German prisoners captured since August 8 is 30,344, the official report said. Of these 21,844 were captured by the British and 8,500 by the French.

It was in the district between Albert and Ayette that the Germans began their retirement yesterday. As they fell back British advance guard detachments pursued and harassed them.

The text of the War Office report follows:

"Severe local fighting took place last night to our advantage south of Raincourt. Our line has been advanced slightly in this neighborhood. One of our patrols rushed a hostile post north of Albert, capturing a machine gun.

"Between Albert and Ayette our patrols were active throughout the night and maintained close touch with the enemy. Further progress was made at a number of points, and several prisoners and a few machine guns were taken by our troops.

"Hostile raiding parties were repulsed last night southeast of Arras and near Merville (Flandere front).

"The enemy artillery has been active east of Robecq and in the Schuerpanberg sector.

"The total number of prisoners captured by the British fourth army since the morning of August 8 is now 21,844. During the same period the prisoners taken by the French first army amount to 8,500, making a total of 30,344 German prisoners captured in the operations of the allied armies on the Montdidier-Albert front."

WAR SUMMARY

By FRANK CHARLTON.
International News Service Cable Editor.

Concentrating their pressure upon the flanks, the allies are steadily wiping out the great salient created by the German drives between Arras and the Oise River on March 21 and June 9. For the time being, big-scale frontal attacks against the Germans between the Somme and Avre rivers have ceased. Meanwhile the British are slowly encircling Albert, while the French are throwing a ring of bayonets around Lassigny, one of the two great key positions on the German left flank.

In the Lassigny sector the Germans are flowing back to the north bank of the Divette River, leaving the rear guards heavily supplied with machine guns, in an effort to check the French advance. The achievements of the French in the wooded hills around Lassigny will go down among the most brilliant achievements of an army that has astonished the world by its valor.

Fighting day and night in their gas masks against a stubbornly resisting foe that is favored by natural barricades and amidst clouds of poison gas fumes, the French have driven across Lassigny ridge and in the Oise valley have captured Ribecourt. The whole German front is wobbling, with the allies pressing closer and closer to Roye, Chaulnes and Roye.

The German retirement on the right flank (north of Albert) is still in progress, with advanced guards of British (probably cavalry) giving the retiring Teutons no rest.

It is likely that the Germans in this northern zone plan to fall back upon the high ground flanking the eastern side of the Albert-Arras railway.

Heavy Artillery Action Between the Oise and Avre Rivers Reported by Paris

By International News Service.

Paris, Aug. 15.—Cannonading between the Oise and Avre rivers, in the district where the French are driving at the German key position of Lassigny, was reported by the War Office today in the following communique:

"The night was marked by rather lively artillery activity between the Avre and Oise rivers.

"A raid was attempted by the enemy in the Marquise sector of the Champagne front, but it was without result."

Custer Veteran's Widow Gives Six Sons and Her Daughter to Uncle Sam

Worcester, Aug. 15.—Of all the Massachusetts mothers who have given their sons to their country, perhaps the greatest sacrifice has been made by Mrs. Alice A. Glagg of No. 66 Edgeworth street, who has five sons in the service, another in the coming draft, and a daughter who has signed up for overseas work as a War Department telephone operator.

Mrs. Flagg is the widow of Peter Flagg, a veteran Indian fighter who was in General Custer's famous troop of cavalry at the battle of Wounded Knee. She is now a patient at St. Vincent's Hospital, but she is trying to get well so that she can add her bit to the family's efforts in the service of the flag.

Her sons who are with the colors are: Robert F. Flagg, thirty, cannoneer on the Western front with the 76th Artillery; John A. Flagg, twenty-seven, and his brother, Albert A. Flagg, with the Emmett Guards; Joseph O. Flagg, stationed at Syracuse, N. Y., on special service; George M. Flagg, twenty-three, a student at Harvard Radio School, studying for battleship duty, and Charles C. Flagg, who is in the next draft. The daughter, Louise Flagg, a telephone operator, has signed up to go to France for field telephone service.

German Grip on Five Great Key Positions Now Badly Shaken

The Germans' grip on five great key positions has been severely shaken by the overnight successes of the allies between the Arras sector and the Oise River.

Albert, north of the Somme River, to which the Germans have been tenaciously clinging since they captured it in their March drive, is today seriously menaced by the German retirement over a five-mile front between Beaumont-Hamel and Buequoy.

Farther south the British and French continue their advance on the line of Bray, Chaulnes, Roye and Lassigny.

The splendid French success in the Oise valley, resulting in the capture of Ribecourt, from the Germans, is imperilling the German line on both the western and eastern sides of the Oise, and has enabled General Humbert's army to approach within five miles of the German base at Noyon.

In spite of stubborn German resistance and the difficult nature of the terrain, the French have pursued their continuous progress between the Matz and Oise rivers, biting deeply into the barriers defending the German left flank.

In this zone the French have been compelled to stamp out innumerable machine gun nests, at the same time attacking through ravines and wooded valleys thick with poison gas and the fumes of mustard shells.

ARRIVED TODAY FOR A REST

Chief Executive to Spend His Time Motoring and on North Shore Links

President and Mrs. Woodrow Wilson arrived at Magnolia today to be the guests of Colonel and Mrs. E. M. House.

They were accompanied by Dr. Cary T. Grayson, the President's physician, and secret service men under J. E. Murphy of Washington.

When the Presidential train drew into the station it was greeted by fifteen or twenty persons. They clapped their hands when the President alighted on the platform. In response he smiled broadly, and seemed in good humor.

Colonel and Mrs. House and Gordon Auchincloss, the colonel's son-in-law, met the party on the platform, where the party lingered only long enough to exchange greetings. They then drove directly to the colonel's home in two automobiles, accompanied by the secret service men in another car.

The President intends to spend a few days with the Houses, but has no definite plans except to get a short rest. While at Magnolia he will play golf at the Essex County Club and the Myopia Hunt Club. In view of the fine weather, with which the President seemed delighted, the party planned to go motoring today, and will probably spend much of their time in this way.

The President expects to play golf tomorrow, with Dr. Grayson and Mr. Auchincloss.

"The President will be in retirement while here," said Mr. Auchincloss to a reporter, "as he wishes to get a complete rest."

At the conclusion of her testimony, Walter Packard, proprietor of the King Philip Inn; Ted Fuller, proprietor of the Quitticus Inn, and Alack Levasseur of the Birches, were found guilty of illegally keeping and selling intoxicating liquor and also of maintaining a liquor nuisance. They were fined $50 on each charge. They appealed.

and should be subject to the same discipline. He must remain in employment—must not strike—while industrial difficulties in which he is involved are being adjusted. Otherwise he will be inducted into the military service.

"The young man not engaged in an essential occupation is compelled to fight whether he feels disposed to or not," said Senator Chamberlain. "In view of this when a young man is exempted from the draft solely in order that he may engage in essential industry he ought to continue that employment in good faith, and if he fails he ought to be subject to the draft. The justice of this provision will appeal to the good sense and patriotism of the whole country," the committee believes.

WIN VICTORY IN THE WEST.

Senator Chamberlain's report contained quotations from heretofore confidential testimony given before the committee by Secretary of War Baker and Chief of Staff March, both of whom urged immediate passage of the bill extending the draft ages in order that "the military program of the United States may not be interfered with."

It was Secretary Baker who revealed that President Wilson has decided the war must be fought out to victory on the western and Italian fronts. The whole energies of the War Department will be devoted to training and transporting the largest possible number of men for the coming titanic struggle on the western battle line, he said.

"The President's policy is that the United States will concentrate its military effort on the western front in France, including the Italian frontier as a part of the western front," Secretary Baker said. "The theory of the fighting in the future is that we must force the issue and win it on the western front."

OVERWHELMING NUMBERS.

General March believed the war would be won when the United States has placed 4,000,000 men in France. He advocated a quick and aggressive fight with overwhelming numbers on the side of the allies as the surest means to an early peace. "It is up to us to win the war and we can win it," said General March.

"How long it will take depends exactly upon what we do. If we drag along with this and put a small force over there, we will be playing Germany's game. It is my belief that with an American army of 4,000,000 men in France, under our commanders-in-chief, we can go through the German lines wherever we please."

The passage of the man-power bill would permit the War Department to draw all the men necessary for carrying out the program until June 30 of next year from Class One.)

SEND MAXIMUM FORCE.

"The policy of the department is to put the maximum number of men in France, with the idea of shortening the war," General March continued. "We found from figures furnished by the provost marshal-general that we could embark on a program of eighty divisions in France by June 30, 1919, with eighteen divisions at home. These divisions consist of roughly 40,000 men to a division. After prolonged study of the available man-power of the United States, the provost marshal-general showed that it was necessary to drop to 18 years of age and to go to 45 in order to get the men to carry it through. All the men obtained under the proposed change in the draft law, approximately 2,300,000 we expect to have in France by June 30, 1919."

A memorandum prepared by the provost marshal-general and included in the report showed that he was first requested to figure on draft ages of nineteen to forty for inclusion in the new bill, but that these ages were rejected when it was found that these classes would yield only a little over a million and a half men.

Because of the lack of a quorum, the Senate took no action on the bill today. A quorum is expected on Monday.

Fashion Clips Three More Inches from Women's Skirts

New York, Aug. 15.—Skirts are to be at least three inches shorter and much tighter this Winter. This is the latest mandate of the goddess of style and the news was brought home to American women here today by Miss Margaret Dreaker, foreign buyer for a prominent American firm, who arrived from France.

"You can tell American women that styles for Fall and Winter call for skirts at least three inches shorter and much tighter," said Miss Dreaker. Jackets are to be shorter and tighter, too. All designs look toward the conservation of cloth. Prevailing colors will be brown, green, navy blue and taupe."

78 HOURS AFLOAT AFTER U-BOAT ATTACK

An Atlantic Port, Aug. 15.—Weak from their long vigil of seventy-eight hours in an open dory in a dense fog, four survivors from the fishing schooner Progress, sunk August 10 by a German submarine off Georges Banks, were landed today.

The four men, George Thomas, Arthur Porter, Matty Richards and Thomas Merchant, were picked up by a steamer 165 miles east of Highland Light on Tuesday afternoon at 4:10 o'clock and brought to this port. Upon their arrival they were taken in charge by the naval authorities and held incommunicado.

With a turkey-red ship's tablecloth for a sail and possessed of but a solitary gallon of fresh water and some ship's biscuits, the four fishermen were nearly exhausted when picked up by the larger boat.

According ot Captain John T. Hayes of the rescue steamer, it was by the barest accident in the sudden lifting of the fog that he located the desperate fishermen.

For more than three days the four members of the crew of the Progress drifted, sailed and rowed blindly through the heavy fog. Not a sound or a sail to give them hope was seen during the whole time they were adrift.

No further trace of the enemy submarine was seen by Captain Hayes, and, with the exception of the accidental discovery of the drifting dory containing the four seamen, the voyage was uneventful.

Today's survivors are believed to be the last of the crews of the nine fishing boats which were sunk on the Georges Banks on Saturday and Sunday. The other members of the crew of the Progress were landed by a fishing schooner at another port several days ago. The entire crew of the Progress is now accounted for.

BROCKTON CUTTERS RETURN TOMORROW?

Brockton, Aug. 15.—Signs that the shoe cutters' strike here is about to end and that the city is likely to get a goodly percentage of the war order for 7,000,000 pairs of army and navy shoes to be given out next week were apparent when today the strikers voted to return at any time suggested by the National War Labor Board.

They made only one condition: that the board take up their grievances and effect an early settlement.

J. H. McLane, Agent for the War Labor Board, was in town today and it was expected that he would recommend that they return at once. This may mean tomorrow.

AISNE RETREAT INDICATED BY SHELL FIRE

Only Low Calibre Artillery Used by Foe as Heavies Are Hurried North

By NEWTON C. PARKE,
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

With the American Army on the Aisne-Vesle Front, Aug. 15.—That the Germans will soon retire from the northern bank of the Vesle to the Aisne River is strongly indicated by the character of the artillery fire during the past seventy-two hours.

None of the shells thrown from German batteries in that time has been of bigger calibre than 105 millimeters (a fraction over four inches), making it appear certain that the big pieces have been withdrawn and that the Germans have now completed the task of removing the greater part of their supplies between the Vesle and Aisne.

FIGHT REARGUARD ACTIONS.

Air observers report a marked diminution of traffic on the roads leading to the German rear.

There is still reason to believe, however, that the Germans will stand along the Vesle until the pressure against their lines is increased by allied attacks.

It is considered probable that one of the super-airplanes, carrying seven men and five engines, was employed by the Germans last night in their great series of raids behind the American front. One of the raiding planes made a terrific racket and is believed to be of the super-bombing type, similar to that which was recently shot down on the American sector of the British front.

HUGE NEW FLARE USED.

Another feature of the raid was a new kind of flare which hung for nearly a minute in the sky after being ignited, lighting up big areas, like a gigantic arc light.

Boche airmen used these new flares over several villages and to illuminate roads.

While the districts were lighted up as though at midday the German airmen swept the country with machine gun fire.

The raids lasted all night long.

The American front on the Vesle was comparatively quiet yesterday, except for the barking of the high angle guns. The "arolles" were extremely busy everywhere as artillery on both sides took advantage of the fine clear weather for photographing operations.

GERMAN MORTARS FOR LIBERTY LOAN TRAINS

German trench-mortars, minnewerfers, hand-grenades and machine guns captured by American troops in the recent Aisne-Marne drive will be the chief attraction of the two "Liberty trains" which will tour New England beginning September 28, in the interest of the Fourth Liberty Loan. Each train will consist of a box-car, two flat cars and a Pullman, and they will visit only the remote towns and rural communities where their arrival will be announced beforehand by posters.

The trains will be under the direction and supervision of Philip S. Dalton, chairman of the local speakers' bureau of the Liberty Loan Committee.

THREAT TO BOMB TURKS BY KAISER

Posters Announcing Germans Are Real Enemies of the Sultan's Subjects Anger Emperor

London, Aug. 15.—A serious clash between the authorities of Constantinople and the German Ambassador there is contained in information from the Turkish capital. The German Ambassador threatened the bombardment of Constantinople by the guns of the German battle cruiser Goeben.

The difference arose over leaflets dropped on the Turkish capital by British aviators. These were read by the people with sympathetic interest, and soon after posters were discovered on the walls of mosques and government buildings declaring that the Germans were the real enemies of the Turks.

These called forth a strong protest from the German ambassador and a demand for an inquiry.

Talaat Bey, the grand vizier, replied that it was impossible to discover the authors of the offence, whereupon the German envoy announced that the German military police would take charge of the investigation. The next day the German representative informed the grand vizier that the offenders were in the service of the Turkish government and that the punishment should be exceptionally severe.

Talaat Bey replied that before anyone was punished he would institute his own inquiry. This resulted in a violent discussion, during which the German ambassador made his threat to bombard the city.

The dispatch telling of Von Songbusch's murder did not give details as to his title. Wenden is in Livonia, one of the Russian provinces seized by Germany, and is fifty miles northeast of Riga.

8 AMENDMENTS READY FOR PEOPLE

Measures Completed by Convention Included Initiative and Referendum

Eight constitutional amendments, including the Initiative and Referendum, are ready for submission to the people as the result of today's work by the Constitutional Convention. The Convention is preparing to adjourn next week. The amendments now ready are:

Initiative and Referendum.

Public control of natural resources.

Establishing this line of succession in the event of death of the Governor: Lieutenant-Governor, Secretary of State, Attorney-General, State Treasurer and State auditor.

Preservation and maintenance of historical and antiquarian matters.

Removal of aged judges.

Allowing Governor to issue orders for regulation of the militia.

Allowing Legislature to adjourn thirty days in the first sixty days of the session for the purpose of devoting its work to committee hearings.

Allowing women to be appointed notaries public.

Capt. Roy A. Shannis of the 102d Field Artillery, back in this country after a year at the front, today stirred the delegates by declaring that nowhere in the world was there a better body of men than the American soldiers from Massachusetts, who are out to punish the Boche for his ruthless atrocities.

"The chaplains are doing a wonderful and inspiring work," he said. "A man who had never been a Christian or never gone a church told me the night of war had made him feel something he had never experienced before. That represents the spirit of all the men."

Packers' Costs and Profits

How much do you think it costs—

1. To dress beef, cure hides, and prepare all the numerous by-products?
2. To cool the meat for two or three days before shipment?
3. To freight it to all parts of the country in special refrigerator cars, iced daily?
4. To carry it in hundreds of branch houses, each with its refrigerating plant?
5. And to deliver it to the retailer—sweet and fresh—in less than two weeks after dressing?

Swift & Company did all this for you in 1917 at an expense of less than 2½ cents per pound of beef sold, including an average profit of ¼ of a cent a pound.

Figure for yourself how little effect this cost and profit had on prices you paid for beef steak.

Old Football Stars Rescue Pig by Flying Tackle

Whoever tried to steal a pig from Percy Sheldon of Adams street, East Milton, forgot that the owner was the well-known Harvard athlete and football star of a few years back, and did not know that "Buck" (Walter) Harrison, former college chum of Sheldon, himself a famous Harvard fullback, was making a call on his old friend.

The two were smoking and reminiscing, when they heard a pig squeal. Dropping their pipes, they ran through the war garden, overtaking the abductor, who was thrown to the ground by a flying lunge in "Buckie's" old-time style. Sheldon rescued Mr. Piggie and called the police.

The man gave his name as Walsh and said he lived in Quincy. Meantime, "Buck" and Sheldon declared it felt like old times to be after the pigskin."

BOUND BODY OF FARMER FOUND IN CISTERN

Police Investigating Brutal Death of William K. Dean at East Jaffrey, N. H.

East Jaffrey, N. H., Aug. 15.—Local authorities are today investigating the brutal murder of William K. Dean, a retired farmer, 70 years old, whose body was found in a rainwater cistern about 200 yards from his home, two miles from this village.

Both of Dean's hands were tied behind his back, with two ropes in six square knots. A heavy burlap bag was over his head and tied to his wrists.

Within the bag was a horse-blanket, tied over his head, and a heavy stone weighing some twenty pounds.

Upon the removal of the blanket severe bruises on the head were disclosed, but the skull was not fractured indicating that he had been struck on the head and stunned, but met his death by drowning.

The legs were bound at the knees.

In the barn nearby there were some blood stains, and some on the piazza of the vacant house.

His wife, who is ill, reports that on his return from the village Tuesday night he went to the barn to do his milking. In her bewildered condition she did not mind his absence until morning, when she telephoned to friends in the village to come up and tend to the stock, as they needed attention.

Selectman William F. Coolidge and Acting Chief of Police Perley H. Enos, with George L. Stratton, went to see what the difficulty was, as Mr. Dean seldom left home except for trading visits to the village.

After a long search the body of the farmer was found in the rainwater cistern.

VON CAPELLE, U-BOAT CHIEF, RETIRES

Replaced by Vice-Admiral Von Behnke as the Kaiser's Minister of Marine

By Agence Radio to the International News Service.

Zurich, Aug. 15.—Vice Admiral von Behnke has been appointed minister of marine by the Kaiser to succeed Vice Admiral von Capelle, according to advices received here.

Dispatches from Holland and Switzerland last week quoted German newspapers as saying that the resignation of Von Capelle was imminent. His retirement is attributed to disappointment in official and public circles in Germany in the results of the U-boat campaign.

Vice Admiral von Capelle was formerly under secretary of marine under Grand Admiral von Tirpitz, and the latter's right hand man. Von Capelle failed to make good on his promises to the Reichstag what he would accomplish with the U-boats.

Vice Admiral von Behnke was assistant chief of the Admiralty staff (general naval staff) but resigned with his chief, Admiral von Pohl, as a protest against the suspension of the ruthless submarine campaign in 1916, and was given command of the torpedo boat flotillas attached to the high seas fleet. He was severely wounded on his flagship in the battle of Jutland.

BROWN TRACED TO PROVIDENCE BY TRUNK

Claim Accused Slayer of Bride First Came to Boston to Conceal Trail

Fall River, Aug. 15.—State detectives are today working on a clue which they expect will result in the arrest of William C. Brown who is charged with slaying Annie Brown, his bride of a week. They have learned that Brown accompanied a trunk to Providence by way of Boston on Saturday, July 20.

The trunk was checked out of Fall River on an afternoon train. The police have learned that Brown went to Boston on the same train that carried his trunk.

Arriving in Boston, the police say Brown checked the trunk to Providence. They have as yet no trace of either Brown or his trunk other than that they arrived in Providence.

The State officers assert that the trunk contained a large number of tools. They assert that these could have been used in cutting up the body of the slain girl.

The police point out that it is only a short ride by electrics from Fall River to Providence, while it is a roundabout journey to go to the Rhode Island city by way of Boston. They assert that they are of the opinion that Brown was trying to cover up his trail.

It was learned today that Annie Donovan Brown, like her husband, was tattooed. The flesh on the parts of her body which were tattooed has been cut away as if her slayer desired to eliminate all tell-tale identification marks.

State detectives have gone to Providence, where they are making every effort to secure information which will result in the arrest of Brown.

Kaiser Refuses to Pose as He Adds Camera to Foes

New York, Aug. 15.—The Kaiser is not going to have his official face photographed this year. Whether he feels he is getting too gray, too busy or whether he is afraid someone might secrete a small machine gun behind the lens, no one knows.

This is unusual, since for the last hundred years or more the occupant of the All High throne in Berlin never has allowed an August to pass without a new picture being made and hung in a gold frame.

De Wint Corelli of the Lisbon art and photographic firm that has had charge of the finishing of the photographs for several years said there would be no finishing for the Kaiser this year except that the Allies were arranging.

KILLS LOVE RIVAL OF 54 AND HIMSELF

Girl of Fifteen Causes Double Tragedy in New Hampshire Town

South Wolfeboro, N. H., Aug. 15.—Love for a fifteen-year-old girl by two men—one fifty-four years of age and the other twenty-nine—resulted in the murder of the former and the suicide of his rival, who feared that he would be arrested for his crime, the authorities here claim.

Miss Hazel Elliott, in the girl in the case. She is large for her age and is considered pretty.

Fred Grenier, a farmer who is said to have been wealthy, was brutally shot, his house looted and set on fire as a result of his affection for Miss Elliott.

FARM HAND KILLED RIVAL.

George Shannon, a farm hand who lived in the Elliott household, killed Grenier according to Carroll County Solicitor Walter D. H. Hill. Medical Examiner E. W. Hodgdon of Mountain View and the local police.

They made known their views on the case after Shannon had taken his life in the court house at North Conway following a grilling by the authorities. They were in possession of evidence which tended to connect him with the murder of Grenier. Rather than be arrested and tried he took his own life, they charge.

Mrs. Elliott today told of the love of Grenier and Shannon for her daughter. She asserted that Shannon spent much time with the girl and that he greatly resented the attentions shown by Grenier. In telling about Grenier's love making, Mrs. Elliott said:

"Mr. Grenier wanted to marry Hazel. He made a marriage proposal to her. The girl, however, said that she did not care for her suitor. I also told her that under no conditions would I permit her to marry Mr. Grenier. He was a fine man, but I considered him a bit too old for my daughter."

Although Miss Elliott did not wish to marry Grenier, she held him as one of her friends. She had been a visitor at the Grenier home, which was located this side of the New Durham line.

SHANNON DESPISED RIVAL.

As he had lived in the Elliott household since last December, Shannon had more of an opportunity to press his case with Miss Elliott. He met the girl when he came here from Alton, N. H., became infatuated with her and did not conceal the fact that he despised Grenier. He told the girl to keep away from the rich farmer, for he also had several arguments with him.

Spurred on by jealousy and the desire to secure funds, which it is known he was sadly in need of, the authorities assert that Shannon decided to murder Grenier. The latter only recently drew his entire savings from a local bank, according to his brother, Henry Grenier.

Whether Shannon knew this is not known. The authorities tend to the belief that he did and thus by his alleged crime hoped to secure money which would enable him to get married at once, provided he could secure the consent of Miss Elliott.

Shannon, according to Solicitor Hall, went to Grenier's home and knocked at the door. When it was opened by the farmer, Hill states Shannon put a bullet through his heart. He then dragged his dead body within the house and tossed the gun on top of it, he charges. Shannon calmly looted the house of its valuables after which he set it on fire, the authorities contend. It is not known whether Shannon secured the money which Grenier is said to have drawn from the bank.

France Honors Lieut. David Putnam Of Brookline

By International News Service.

Paris, Aug. 15.—Lieut. David Putnam of the Lafayette Escadrille, who is officially credited with bringing down ten German machines, was decorated with the French military medal today.

The citation says of Putnam that "his spirit and skill in constant danger show him to be a pilot of the first class."

Lieut Putnam recently attacked nine boches, bringing down one of them. The next day he attacked a group of eight Germans, bagging two.

Lieutenant David E. Putnam is the son of Mrs. Francis Putnam, now living in Hemenway street, Boston. He was graduated from Newton High School in 1916 and entered Harvard in the Fall of that year. He left Harvard with one of the college ambulance units and after finishing his work in that branch joined the escadrille.

GIRL SAVED WITH ROPE OF SHEET AT FIRE

Lowered by Mother From Somerville Balcony of Smoke-Filled Home

Standing on the second floor balcony in front of her home, No. 53 Adams street, Somerville, Mrs. Frank Towle tore sheets into strips and with these knotted together lowered her seven-year-old daughter Eva to the street, when fire was discovered in the wooden dwelling today.

Mrs. Towle, sleeping in the second floor of the two and one-half story frame house, awoke to find the house filled with smoke. She awakened her little daughter and started for the stairs. She found escape over the stairs cut off by the fire. Leading her daughter by the hand she went to the small balcony in front of the house, grabbing up several bedsheets as she went. The sheets she tore into strips. Making a rope of those she fastened it about the little girl's body and lowered her to the street.

The child ran to the home of neighbors, who telephoned an alarm to fire headquarters. Mrs. Towle remained patiently waiting on the balcony of her blazing home until the firemen arrived. Captain Fred Hathaway and Lieutenant Patten carried her down a ladder.

The fire started from an undetermined cause in a china closet on the ground floor, and did damage estimated at $500.

PAYS TEN DOLLARS FOR THREE QUARTS OF MILK

Ten dollars for three quarts of milk was the price paid by Mrs. Vasili Richards, 45, of Endicott avenue, Revere, in Chelsea Court today. Theodore Ellis of Endicott avenue testified that, having missed his daily bottle of milk for three mornings, he watched on the morning of August 8 and saw the woman carry it away. The milk was certified and ordered for his young child. Mrs. Richards said that she thought the milk belonged to "the woman upstairs" and had intended to replace it.

Brockton, Aug. 15.—The city tax rate announced today is $28.80, an increase of $2.80 over that of last year, and the largest in the history of Brockton. DEVENS SQUAD FOR ARTILLERY CAMP PICKED

Camp Devens, Ayer, Aug. 15.—The first lot of candidates for the artillery training school at Camp Zachary Taylor have been nominated and ordered to report at the Louisville cantonment immediately for active training.

Most of the men are from the Depot Brigade, and will receive instruction to be commissioned second-lieutenants for light and heavy artillery.

The artillery units for the 12th Division are not being trained at this camp and it is possible that some of the non-commissioned officers and privates chosen for the camp will be graduated in time to become part of the division.

Those on their way to report are Sergeant Clarence Potvin, Tupper Lake, N. Y.; Ryan B. Tracey, 7th Company Depot Brigade; Private Robert F. Foster, Beckman; Sergeant Harold G. Regan, Somerset; Sergeant Paul M. Vining, Forest street, Springfield; Private Dennis Connor, 20th Company; Private Robert N. Hunt, 23d Company; Corporal William F. Hennessy, 23d Company; Private Ernest M. Lee; Sergeant James L. Dalton, Naugatuck, Ct.; Sergeant Walter B. Dziadik, Derby, Ct.; Private John B. White, Lawrence; Private George D. Clark, Headquarters Company; Private Harry M. Haeseler, medical detachment, base hospital; Private Dennis F. Ryan, No. 218 Washington street, Cambridge; Sergeant Kenneth B. Gerrish, Malden; Private Edward A. Lawler, Lawrence; and Private Kenneth E. Ramsay, Farmington, Me.

Major Edwin Walsoopf has been appointed president of the second court to hear complaints against men of the cantonment not assigned to the division. The first meeting will be held Monday for organization. Other members of the board are, Major H. W. Bartlett, Captains C. J. Noland, J. J. Maguire, H. F. Moulton, G. W. Mehan, and Lieutenant T. M. Noyes, A. W. Walker, L. A. Bassette, C. W. Link, F. M. Flanagan, R. M. Lowe and C. F. Whitley; First Lieutenant Ross Whittier will act as judge advocate and Second Lieutenant H. R. Gowey, assistant.

"How to Be Happy" will be the title of a lecture tonight at the Jewish Welfare hut when Dr. Herbert Goldstein, founder of the Institutional Synagogue of New York city, will be the speaker at a revival meeting. Tomorrow night Rabbi Samuel Price of Springfield will deliver a sermon and officiate at the religious services after paying a visit to the Springfield recruits.

All the Jewish soldiers in camp are being registered before the first holiday on September 4, when probably all will be allowed furlough.

Major Hitchcock has issued an order forbidding all officers from enjoying the use of the automobiles of private within the 72d regiment, in order that no special favors may be given those fortunate enough to have machines. The same rule was in effect in the 76th division and Major Hitchcock is the first to make it an order in the new division.

Gift Ring Returned to Mother of Hero Soldier

Lawrence, Aug. 15.—Mrs. Frank D. Harrington gave her two sons, Frank and Charlie, each a ring when they sailed for France with Company L of the 103d Regiment. Yesterday Lieutenant Sidney Cook, acting as a messenger from Lieutenant Doan, commanding officer of Company L, returned Frank's ring to his mother, expressing the sympathy of the boys conveyed in the returned memento.

Frank Harrington was killed in action July 14. Charles Harrington, the other son, writes that he is in a hospital where he was removed after being severely wounded in action.

LIFEBOAT DRILL AT RADIO SCHOOL

By S. HARRY FERRIS.

U. S. Naval Radio School at Cambridge, Aug. 15.—Preparations are being made to teach the Radio boys the technical details connected with properly abandoning ship in case of disaster at sea.

This necessary feature of instruction to fit a man for active service has heretofore been left to the time when the men were on the ocean.

Davits with boats swung from them are to be set up at the Weld boathouse, and the boys will be shown how to man the ropes and lower the boats when actually loaded.

The value of this instruction will be understood when it is appreciated that some very serious marine losses of life have been due to the fact that lifeboats have not been properly lowered.

One of the most popular places in the vicinity of Harvard square is the parish house of old Christ Church, once occupied as a barracks by Washington's Continental army.

The work has been taken up by the church of providing the boys with wholesome social entertainment, and one of the features of its program is the holding of frequent dances, at which the young women of the church and their families are present to dance with the boys. And, for the sailors who cannot dance, instruction is provided.

The Radio sailors are preparing to have a prominent part in the track and field meet being arranged under the direction of Lieutenant Leon Little, the former Harvard track manager, to be held at the Stadium on September 7. The school hopes to be represented by a tug-of-war team that will carry off the honors of the day.

CARED FOR 3,428 BABIES IN THE MONTH OF JULY

At the monthly meeting of the board of trustees of the Baby Hygiene Association, Dr. J. Herbert Young, the director, reported that during the month of July the association cared for 3,428 babies, about 900 more than were cared for in July, 1917. Weekly registration continues to increase at a more rapid rate than in any previous year and has reached 3,329.

CHILD WALKS TO DEATH IN CHANNEL OF RIVER

Bridgewater, Aug. 15.—While wading near the shore at Town River, Elsie Hall, eleven-years-old, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jeffery Hall of Plymouth street, stepped from the bank into the channel and was drowned.

Some of her companions notified nearby neighbors, who summoned the police. The body was recovered by Wallace Harding.

WORK BEGUN ON SERVICE MEN'S CANTEEN

Ground Broken for Army and Navy Building on Tremont Street Mall

Work of building the Boston Army and Navy Canteen has been begun. Ground has been broken on the site chosen, directly opposite Temple place, on the Tremont street mall. If plans work out as intended, the building should be ready for occupancy early in September. Dedication exercises will be held at that time.

It was also announced today that about $220,000 had been subscribed for the erection and equipment of the building. The amounts vary from $5 to $250 and have come not only from Boston proper, but in many instances from the suburban districts.

Plans of the building committee, of which Charles Francis Adams is chairman, shows that the building will be heated by a hot water system, giving the assurance of a comfortable building during the Winter.

A steam plant will be connected with the canteen, thus affording the most sanitary methods for cleansing purposes.

An electric range will take care of the cooking. The canteen will be comprised of three portable houses all linked together. These portables are now under construction and will soon be taken to the Common and erected.

Plumbers are breaking ground to lay their pipes and the engineers have staked off the lot.

The building committee has broken all records for speed in getting the official wheels in motion. The committee includes Charles Francis Adams, chairman; Arthur Shurtleff, George B. Johnson, Henry J. Nichols, Miss Eleanor Manning, Mrs. George R. Fearing, Jr., and Mrs. Jesse Koshland.

SAYS WOMEN DOCTORS HAVE BEST CHANCE NOW

New York, Aug. 15.—Women physicians can do the best possible service by foregoing sensational war jobs at the front, and caring for the civilian population at home, according to Dr. W. E. Caldwell of Bellevue and the Child's Hospital. "This is woman's greatest opportunity in the history of medicine," he said. "The hospitals are calling loudly for her help, and the doors are wide open, as they have never been before."

RESPECT THE UNIFORM, GIRLS; DON'T FLIRT!

"Don't flirt with soldiers" is the warning issued to young girls by the commissions on training camp activities of the War and Navy Departments. This warning is not intended to reflect on the character of the men in service, to whom the commissions pay a tribute, but to remind girls that the uniform does not warrant acquaintance without introduction, any more than does civilian dress.

MAYS MUST WIN OUT FOR SOX

Barrow's Brigade Fights Hard to Stand Off White Sox Before Big Cleveland Series.

By NICK FLATLEY.

Blond Carl Mays was ready to endeavor today to keep the leading Red Sox right on the victory trail, whither Samuel Jones, Esq., replaced them yesterday by taking a 5-3 fall out of the White Sox.

Sam, who will deserve flocks of credit if the Barrow brigade eventually wins the gonfalon, tossed one of his good games, holding the hostiles to seven hits, while Reb Russell, ever a Boston stumbling-block, was being pounded for a dozen.

The dozen included run-making triples by Hoopo and Scotty, and each triple counted himself afterward, so you can see, between them the pair pretty nearly settled the pastime.

CHISOX' WORK WOBBLY.

In justice to the defeating Reb it might be mentioned that perfect support would have given him a better chance, though he really never did figure in the funning, at that.

The local heroes showed all the fight and pep that was lacking in the lamentable Tank series. They put up a brilliant game in the field and hit when hits counted. In addition to their extra-base swatting the paid fielded at their best, which is the ultimate of descriptions.

These Sox have apparently realized that the Cleveland threat is a little more serious than it appeared a time back, and are set to put all they have in the dash to the wire. With Russell out of the way the invaders of the present should not offer extra hard competition, especially as Edward Collins departs this day for a marine training camp.

COLLINS' LAST GAME.

Edward, who had proved himself a game ax he has been brilliant in a grand career on the diamond, did not contemplate going into the navy. He was originally slated to be where the fighting was thickest, so picked the marines. That E. Collins type brings as much credit to the good old game as the shipyard type does not.

Manager Barrow tried a new lineup yesterday, shooting Jack Coffey to third and putting Miller out in left, where he will play hereafter, vice Ruth, when southpaws are on the hill. He hit the ball smack on the nose yesterday.

Coffey, who was most recently with the Tigers, has ever been a good fielder, and should steady down the difficult corner of the infield in the big drive to the Queen's taste, whatever he does with the war club.

BAN ON BIG PAY FOR SHIP LEAGUE PLAYERS

Philadelphia, Aug. 14.—The employment of professional ball players in shipyards, "more for the purpose of bolstering up teams than to expedite the shipbuilding program" will no longer be countenanced by the Emergency Fleet Corporation.

In an order issued today by the vice-president, Howard Coonley, ball players are placed on the same footing as all other workmen, and yards that offer high salaries to obtain their services will not be reimbursed by the corporation. Coonley declared that he favored sport, but the professional athlete should be treated as are all other workers.

NO BIG LEAGUE BALL LIKELY NEXT YEAR

Brooklyn, N. Y., Aug. 15.—Charles Ebbets, owner of the Brooklyn Baseball Club of the National League, announces that he has made arrangements to convert Ebbets Field into a storage plant by enclosing the space under the grand stands.

Similar action by owners of baseball parks all over the country, it is learned, is probable. It is known that Harry Hempstead, owner of the New York Giants, is negotiating for the use of the Polo Grounds for this purpose.

If the movement extends to the other ball grounds throughout the country it means there will be no professional baseball next year.

Mr. Ebbets, in making the announcement, said the space under the grandstands at Ebbets Field can be used for the storage of 150,000 cases of goods. It has all the facilities—lighting system, steam heating plant, etc.—necessary for a storage warehouse.

He contemplates also the building of additional storage space in the field, using the centre field fences, which are of concrete, as a base. This would give him a building 360 feet by 150 feet, with 16 feet headway.

The plan of using baseball parks for storage purposes was first tried out at Washington Park, former home of the Brooklyn club and occupied by the Brooklyn club of the Federal League.

It has proved entirely satisfactory, every available inch of space being filled up with storage and packing cases.

It is estimated that over 1,000,000 cubic feet of storage space would be available at the Polo Grounds. The Motor Speedway at Sheepshead Bay which is likewise under consideration for the same purpose could provide over 2,000,000 cubic feet.

The Speedway, it is pointed out, would be a most advantageous location for a storage plant because of its proximity to the bay and ocean and its excellent railroad facilities.

BILLY KELLY ANNEXES STAKE IN HOLLOW STYLE

Saratoga Springs, N. Y., Aug. 15.—Billy Kelly is back on the job an king. This speedy two-year-old clambered back on the throne in the running of the Sanford Memorial. Wearing for the first time the silks of Commodore J. K. L. Ross, the bad boy riding did the popular colors justice by his remarkable victory. It was a worthy combination; a great horse, popular owner and a rider who learned after one of the best breeders ever known.

Billy Kelly has to be a real good boy to win. He got off badly, but worked his way up nicely and shot over the line a winner by six lengths. Lion D'Or, an added starter, was an easy second and Col. Livingston third.

Polymelian proved his ochre again when he was beaten in the fifth event. Off in front, and led the bunch to the three-quarters mark when he folded up and was passed by Boniface and Gloomy Gus.

FOTHERINGHAM BREAKS RECORD AT OAK BLUFFS

Oak Bluffs, Aug. 15.—George Fotheringham, New York professional, covered the Oak Bluffs Country Club course record in the three-day professional-amateur tournament when he turned in a card of 70. The old mark was 73. Tommy Kerrigan, Boston, had turned in two 74s and two rounds of 75. L. H. Dowling of Manchester, N. H., topped the amateurs with 163.

Corbett's Corner

By JAMES J. CORBETT.

"The man who struck 100,000 blows—and never a blow in malice." That's what could be inscribed on the tombstone of Mike Donovan, one of the most marvelous ringmen that ever stepped between the ropes; a friend of presidents and millionaires, clean and honest; a man in every fibre of his being.

Donovan has gone into the Great Beyond and has joined John L. and Fits and those others who added fame and glory to the sport that they loved; who graced pugilism and ennobled it.

Donovan was a fighter by instinct. From his earliest knickerbocker days, he found his greatest pleasure in battling with his chums in friendly bouts.

He had the natural assets of determination, courage, speed and stamina. And to these, he added as the years went on, knowledges of boxing such as only a few men ever have acquired. Donovan was in his prime in the bare knuckle days.

The bulk of his battling was under London Prize Ring rules. Yet he became a marvelous boxing master.

Donovan had much to do with John L's successful entry into the ring. It was Mike who saw in him the making of a world's champion when others regarded Sullivan only as "The Boston Strong Boy."

MISS BJURSTEDT PLAYS COURT AT LONGWOOD

Nathaniel W. Niles and T. R. Pell, one of the tennis world's veteran pairs, and two brilliant performers, were to meet Vincent Richards, New York city's sensational sixteen-year-old schoolboy player, and W. T. Tilden in the semi-final round, upper half, in the national tennis doubles, at Longwood, this afternoon.

The other semi-final match goes over until tomorrow, when Fred R. Alexander and Beals C. Wright play the winner of today's Jones-Dank and Hayes-Burdick' match. Hayes, Chicago crack, did not play yesterday, and report has it he and his partner will default.

The mixed doubles invitation matches were to start this afternoon. In the drawing Mrs. George W. Wightman and Irving C. Wright, and Miss Edith Rotch and Harry C. Johnson got byes.

The two first round matches were to be between Miss Marion Zinderstein and Walter Merrill Hall vs. Mrs. Frank Godfrey and George W. Wightman, and Miss Mollie Bjurstedt, champion of champions, and Fred R. Alexander vs. Mr. and Mrs. Nathaniel W. Niles.

Alexander and Wright proved they are in form by disposing of Ichiya Kumagae, sensational player from the Orient, and his partner, Harold Taylor of New York, in the third round. Their match went five sets and was replete with plenty of sparkling tennis.

Big Four Ready for Revenge Event at Revere Saucer

The Golden Wheel "Revenge Race," on the menu for last night at the Revere Cycle Track, but prevented owing to the inclement weather, will take place tonight, providing it doesn't blow up again.

Victor Linart, who won last week's big event; Vincent Madonna, George Wiley and Frank Corry, are the four flyers who will face the starter. It smacks of being a battle royal; in fact, one of the keenest struggles of the season should result.

The usual card of professional and amateur races will precede the big main event.

MURPHY AGAIN LEADS AT CIRCUIT RACES

Philadelphia, Aug. 14.—Tommy Murphy's horses again carried off the chief honors at the third day's racing of the grand circuit meeting at Belmont track, winning two firsts and two second moneys in four starts. Murphy won the free-for-all pace with Miss Harris M. and the 2:12 pace with Budlight.

The veteran Geers won the two-year-old Liberty stake of $2,000 with Brielloff, beating Murphy's Norman Dillon. The money was paid at the wire in Liberty Bonds.

EX-GIANT TELLS THE WHOLE WORLD WHERE THE BIG GAME IS ON

New York, Aug. 15.—Excoriation for the baseball player is brought from the trenches and placed squarely before the big leaguers by Lieutenant Harry (Moose) McCormick, once a player in the premier circuit himself.

He declares that the here ever in the "big game" have nothing but scorn for big league players who are dodging the war issue, and don't care a rap whether Cobb is batting 1.000 or .000.

The Stars and Stripes, official newspaper of the soldiers, has ceased to print ball scores, states McCormick, and the sentiment among the fighters at the front is that ball players back home should enlist in a body and redeem the national pastime.

New Fistic Whirlwind to Show at C. A. C.; Lowell's Fine Bill

By RINGSIDE.

The Commercial A. C. has a fine bill for its show tomorrow night. Frankie Ryan, not Daly, as originally given out, will meet Young Perona of New Bedford in one of the three ten-rounders.

There's no change in the biffist, simply in the name. Ryan is the Brooklyn kid's fighting cognomen, and as he's done pretty fair work with the monnicker, knocking out Chick Sinclair, then going to a draw with Chick, and also a couple of draws with Shamus O'Brien, he intends to stick to it.

Dave Powers of Malden and Jack Vato of Chelsea meet in the second ten-rounder, and Paddy Owens of Cambridge faces Charley Mitchell of Stratford, the final bout of the same distance. Johnny Fay and Battling Hurley, two North Enders, open the show in a six-round contest.

The Crescent A. C. of Lowell also entertains tomorrow night. If the following talent doesn't prove O. K. we don't know what talent is:

Charley Parker, South End youth, who is still batting for 1,000 in pro ranks, and George Chaney of Revere, and George Brooks of Lowell and Jenny Flannagan of New Bedford, clash in six-rounders, and the semi-final is between Kid Lee and Johnny Gray, both of Chelsea.

Just to make it a strictly snappy card, Frankie (Young) Britt and Young Terry McGovern mingle in the feature event at twelve rounds.

FIFTH HOMER FOR WOOD ON NEW YORK GROUNDS

Smoky Joe Wood certainly likes those fences over on the Polo Grounds, New York. His homer yesterday was the fifth one he has poled on the Harlem lawn this season.

Gossip of Gloveland

MATT BROCK of Cleveland, one of the best of the lightweight crop, and Frankie Conway make a strong card for next Tuesday night's show at the Arena. Both have contracted to weigh in at 126 pounds at 4 o'clock. Johnny Kent, Scotch champion and boy of Chelsea hook up in the semi-final.

SHAVER O'BRIEN takes Tommy Burns in a double six-rounder at Bath, Me., Saturday night. Burns has been making quite a record down Bath way, so it's entirely up to Shaver.

Instead of Drinking Cups.

ON trips and picnics a few soda-fountain straws will be found more valuable than any drinking cup. It makes possible the procuring of water from a spring or brook without rolling it or dipping up leaves or twigs on the surface.—Good Housekeeping.

This Day in History.

THIS is the anniversary of the birth of Napoleon Bonaparte in Corsica in 1769. This child of humble parents at the age of twenty-six and with a ragged army defeated the most experienced generals of Austria and became the greatest military genius of all time.

A Thrilling Story of an American Girl and German Intrigue in This Country

"I AM taking the situation," the other explained, "for the sake of experience. I do not wish to rob you of your earnings. I will pay you the five dollars a week while I stay here. You shall help me with the work."

"That's a deal, my little yellow-skinned kid," the valet agreed in a tone of relief. "I'll show you where the things are kept."

His new coadjutor bowed.

"The telephone is ringing in the master's room," he observed. "You shall remain here, and I will answer it."

"That goes, Jappy," the man acquiesced. "If it's a young lady take her name, but don't say that Mr. Van Teyl's about. Forward young bagganges some of them are."

Nikasti glided from the room, closed the door, and approached the telephone receiver.

"Yes," he acknowledged, "these are the rooms of Mr. Van Teyl. . . . No, madam, Mr. Van Teyl is not in at present."

There was a moment's pause. Nikasti's face was impenetrable as he listened, but his eyes glowed.

"Yes, I understand, madam," he said softly. "You are Miss Van Teyl, and you wish to speak to your brother. The moment Mr. Van Teyl returns I will ring you up or fetch you."

He replaced the receiver upon its hook, and returned to the bedroom. For some little time he was initiated into the mysteries of his new master's studs, boots and shoes, and general taste in wearing apparel. Then the latter entered the sitting room, and Nikasti obeyed his summons.

"Any one called me up?" he inquired.

"No one, sir."

Van Teyl glanced at the clock in an undecided manner.

"I'll change right away," he decided. "Just set things to rights in here, fill my cigarette case, and hang round by the telephone."

Stood Listening

Nikasti bowed, and the young man disappeared into the inner room. His new attendant waited until the door was closed. Then he removed the receiver from its hook, laid it upon the table, and moved stealthily towards the open fireplace. For several moments he remained in an attitude of listening, then with quick, lithe fingers he drew from his pocket a cable dispatch, reread it with an air of complete absorption, and committed it to the flames. He watched it burn, and turned away from the contemplation of its grey ashes with a sigh of content. Suddenly he started. The door of the sitting room had been opened and closed. A tall, broad-shouldered man, wearing gold-rimmed spectacles, a long traveling coat and a Homburg hat, was standing watching him. Nikasti was only temporarily disturbed. His look of gentle inquiry was perfect.

"You wish to see my master—Mr. Van Teyl?" he asked.

"Where is he?" Fischer demanded.

"He is dressing in the next apartment. I will take him your name."

Fischer threw his coat and hat upon the table.

"That'll do directly," he replied. "So you're Nikasti?"

They looked at one another for a moment. The face of the Japanese was smooth, bland, and imperturbable. His eyes were innocent even of any question. Fischer's forehead was wrinkled, and his brows drawn close together.

"I am Nikasti," the other acknowledged—"Kato Nikasti. Mr. Van Teyl has just engaged me as his valet."

"You can take off the gloves," Fischer told him. "I am Oscar Fischer."

"Oscar Fischer," Nikasti repeated.

"Yes! . . . Burning something when I came in, weren't you? Looked like a cable, eh?"

"A dispatch from London," Nikasti confided.

"Nothing that would interest me, eh?"

"It was a family message," was the calm response. "It did not concern the affair which is between us."

"How came you to speak English like this?" Fischer inquired.

"I was at Oxford University for two years," Nikasti told him, "and in the Embassy at London for five more."

"Before you took up your present job, eh?"

Nikasti assented silently. Fischer glanced around as though to make sure they were still alone.

"I have the communication with me," he announced, "which we are to discuss. The terms of our proposal are clearly set out, and they are signed by the Highest of all himself. The letter embodying them was handed to me three weeks ago, today in Berlin. Have you been to Washington?"

Nikasti shook his head.

"I do not go to Washington," he said. "You will understand that diplomatically, as you would put it, I do not exist. Neither is it necessary. I am here to listen."

Fischer nodded.

"There need be very little delay, then," he observed, "before we get to work."

Nikasti bowed and raised his fore-finger in warning.

"I think," he whispered, "that Mr. Van Teyl has finished dressing."

A Careful Purchaser

An Irishman went into a jeweler's to buy a clock, and the shopman showed him one for ten dollars. "What, ten dollars for that bit of a clock?" he exclaimed. "Is there anything wonderful about it?" "Yes," said the other; "this is an eight-day clock." "And what's that?" inquired Pat. "Why," answered the shopman "it goes eight days without winding." "Faix, I'll scratch-ola head in bewilderment. "So much as that?" he said. "Well, there's one question I'd like to be after asking you. If it goes eight days without winding, how long will it go if ye wind it?"

Be Careful in Using Soap on Your Hair

Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali, which is very injurious, as it dries the scalp and makes the hair brittle.

The best thing to use is just plain mulsified cocoanut oil, for it is pure and entirely greaseless. It's very cheap, and beats the most expensive soaps or anything else all to pieces. You can get this at any drug store, and a few ounces will last the whole family for months.

Simply moisten the hair with water, rub it in, about a teaspoonful is all that is required. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, cleanses thoroughly, and rinses out easily. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and is soft, fresh looking, bright, fluffy, wavy, and easy to handle. Besides, cocoanut oil takes out every particle of dust, dirt and dandruff.—Advertisement.

A Single Application Will Banish Objectionable Hairs

(Aids to Beauty.)

Here is a home treatment for removing hairs that is quick, painless and inexpensive. With some powdered delatone and water make enough paste to thickly cover the objectionable hairs, apply and after 2 or 3 minutes rub off, wash the skin and it will be left soft, clear and hairless. This treatment will not mar the skin, but to avoid disappointment, be careful to get real delatone.—Advertisement.

A Great War Work

HELPING OUR WOUNDED MEN

Beatrice Fairfax Points Out Vast Field for Those Who Would Help the Maimed to Help Themselves

By Beatrice Fairfax

THIS other day I saw a young friend of mine in a uniform that was new to me. It had a long serviceable cape of blue, a soft, comfortable hat with a maroon cockade at one side and there was a blue tailored coat and skirt. It was comfortable, durable, and not too exaggeratingly picturesque.

My young friend, who has had a very thorough training in art, then went on to explain to me the mission of this particular unit to which she was attached. It had been recruited entirely from woman artists and those who had gained proficiency in the study of arts and crafts.

And in addition to the thorough training in art that had been a necessary qualification of joining, they had been submitted to an intensive hospital training for a number of months.

And the glorious work they were about to engage in, over in France, was the salvaging of soldiers whose infirmities necessitated their learning a new manner of bread winning.

Teach Blind

The blind are to be taught weaving and basketry. Men who had lost legs and would have to depend on a sedentary occupation were to be taught modelling, stencilling, china decoration, jewelry making, wood carving, and when they showed the necessary ability they would be taught painting.

Those who lost arms would tend looms, manipulated by foot power, and so it went. This wonderful salvaging unit had taken account of all the human wreckage of battle, and it would take a disabled man and teach him a new way to make his living and enable him to keep his self-respect.

After long weeks, and sometimes months, in hospital, when a soldier realizes he has got to begin life all over again, and learn a new occupation besides, he is apt to feel discouraged. He must face the future from an angle entirely different from the one he looked at life from before the war—then comes the time when he needs help!

No useless, enervating pity—but a lift from a strong, helpful hand, is the tonic that soldier requires.

And here it is that the soldiers' mothers, sweethearts and wives can do the biggest war work woman is capable of doing when the boys come home to them.

Do Not Depress

Do not depress them with your pity, but hearten them with your courage—if they should return maimed.

Never in the history of the world has there been so just a cause as the one for which they are now fighting. Their sacrifices have given the world a mighty shove in the right direction. They are fighting for human liberties, against a medieval despotism, and the men who have done that are entitled to love, admiration and respect—not, to pity.

After the war is over and we begin to travel in Europe again, it is likely that we shall look on some of the wrecked monuments of the world with a greater reverence than we gave them when they were whole and beautiful.

Those battle-scarred Belgium towns will make us realize more thoroughly than could any telling, how that brave little country, crouching in the path of the invader, and suffering all things, gave the rest of the world a chance to awaken and rush to defend itself.

Something of the same feeling, only infinitely deeper, we must keep in our hearts for these young heroes when they return. They may come back wraiths of their former splendid manhood, but we must never forget that they have given to the world something infinitely greater than the glory of youth and the strength of young bodies.

And it is up to every woman to make some soldier—beginning life over again on account of his infirmities—feel the tremendous admiration we have for this second great battle that must be fought out alone and with none of the inspiring drama of war.

At first it is the business of toiling patiently at loom or lathe may seem insignificant as compared to the "max in bloom" that claimed the soldier before the war. But we shall not feel that way after our eyes have been opened to the significance of this new calling.

Making the Most of Fruit

WATERMELON RIND PRESERVES.

Peel the rind of a watermelon that is not too ripe, cut or chop into one-inch cubes or strips, leaving as much of the firm red pulp on the rind as possible. Allow three lemons. To four cups of sliced melon take three cups of sugar. Let boil slowly about two hours, add lemons, sliced fine and seeded. Let boil until juice is a thick syrup—one-half to one hour longer. Place in airtight jars and keep in dry, cool place.

Put through grinder skins and all, after removing seeds. Add 11 cups of cold water. Let stand twenty-four hours. Boil fifteen minutes, then add 3½ pounds sugar and cook until very thick, about twenty minutes.

PEAR PRESERVES.

Six pounds chopped hard pears, 2 small lemons or 1 large one, 6 pounds sugar, 1-6 pound preserved ginger, chopped.

Squeeze the juice of the lemons on the sugar, and chop the rind very fine. Add the ginger and chopped pears, and cook altogether about two hours, or until clear and thick. This will keep in stone crock—a very good place to store preserves.

PEACH BUTTER.

Wash the peaches and remove the "fuzz" by wiping them with a damp cloth, but do not peel them. Place in a granite kettle, add a little water and simmer until the fruit is very tender. Run them through a fruit press or collander to remove the pits and skins. Put the pulp thus obtained into a clean kettle, sweeten to taste, and add broken sticks of cinnamon and a few whole cloves. Boil until very thick and of a rich color. Store as for jelly. Remove the spices before pouring into the glasses.

PEAR MARMALADE.

Four pounds pears, 2 lemons, ¼ pound preserved ginger, 4 pounds sugar.

Peel the pears and cut in small pieces. Add the sugar and boil gently for one hour. Boil the lemons in water till tender, remove the seeds, squeeze the juice into the pears, and chop the peel very fine together with the ginger. Add to the pears and boil gently for another hour or until transparent. This makes three dozen pint jars.

Measles as a Menace

SUGGESTIONS BY AN EXPERT

By Brice Belden, M. D.

MEASLES is a highly contagious disease. The poison by which it is transmitted is in the nasal and bronchial secretions. This poison may be carried from sick to well children on the clothes or on the hands.

Measles is most commonly observed in children, but it is occasionally met with in adults, who suffer much more discomfort through the affection than do the little people.

There always is more or less measles in the large cities, and every few years it becomes epidemic.

One attack generally protects the individual against subsequent infection.

After exposure, from one to two weeks pass by before the disease manifests itself. The invasion is characterized by catarrhal symptoms—redness of the eyes, a running nose, sneezing, hoarseness, cough and in older children expectoration. Light is apt to hurt the eyes. Then the temperature rises to 103 or 104 degrees, but on the second day the fever often falls quite a little until the fourth day after invasion, when the eruption appears and the fever goes up again, remaining then for three or four days.

The rash appears first on the face and then rapidly spreads over the entire body. It is composed of dark red blotches, which show a tendency to form groups having eccentric borders. The blotches have a velvety feeling. There usually is much itching. In three or four days the rash begins to fade, and a branny shedding of the skin follows.

One or two days before the skin eruption appears small bluish-white spots surrounded by red areas may be seen on the mucous membrane of the cheeks and lips. By looking for these the nature of a child's illness may be determined early.

Pneumonia and acute catarrh of the stomach and intestines are the most common complications. Less frequent complications are inflammation of the middle ear, sore eyes, throat troubles, serious ulceration in the mouth, and tuberculosis of the lungs.

Recovery is the rule in ordinary uncomplicated cases.

The child should be quarantined and the sick room well ventilated but moderately darkened. The diet should consist of milk, junket, fruit juices, broths, eggs and gruel. Water should be given freely.

Itching may be relieved by rubbing the body with cocoa butter. Prevent soreness of the lids by frequent cleansing with a solution of boric acid (two teaspoonfuls of boric acid to half a pint of water).

Hot baths and hot drinks help to bring out the rash if it is delayed unduly.

High temperature is best controlled by cold sponging. Medicines have no effect on the course of the disease.

During convalescence cod-liver oil is useful.

German measles runs a shorter course than ordinary measles, there is less fever, and complications are less likely to occur. The rash is pinkish-red.

No Progress

Willis—"How is your garden progressing?" Gillis—"Very poorly. The directions on the package say I have to measure the seeds carefully, and it has taken me since yesterday to get the dimensions of seven of them. They're so small!"

ADVICE TO THE LOVELORN

By Beatrice Fairfax

Don't Appear Too Eager

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

Kindly advise me in this matter: A gentleman made an appointment with me a week ago, and when he called at the appointed time informed me that he was very sorry he had to work that night. He did not, however, make another engagement, and I am beginning to think it was just an excuse.

Do you think if he invites me out again that I ought to go, or do you think I will appear too eager to go out with him? For I care for him, but do not want him to know it. F. J.

IF will be all right for you to accept the next invitation, if you care to, but I should not call him up or make any effort to see him till he took the first steps. He will appreciate you more if you are not too eager.

Why Don't You Take Nuxated Iron, Sam?

"Two months ago I felt just about as you look, weak, nervous, and all run-down—I took Nuxated Iron for six weeks and—

To-day

Look at Me---I Feel Strong as an Ox

and ready for any task. You can talk as you please, but I am thoroughly convinced that Nuxated Iron contains something that must be of greatest value to help put flesh, force and courage into a man's blood. Here is an extra package that I wish you would take home and try."

Nuxated Iron has been used and highly endorsed by such men as Hon. Leslie M. Shaw, former Presidential Cabinet Official, Secretary of the Treasury; United States Judge Atkinson of the Court of Claims of Washington; Judge William E. Chambers, Commissioner of the United States Board of Mediation and Conciliation, formerly Chief Justice of the International Court, Samoa; former United States Senator and Vice-Presidential nominee Chas. A. Towne of Minnesota; former U. S. Senator Richard Bullock Kenney of Delaware, at present Asst. Judge Advocate General, U. S. Army; General John A. Logan (Retired), the drummer boy of Shiloh, who was recently in the U. S. Army, when only twelve years of age; General David Stuart Gordon (Retired), hero of Peking; Surgeon-General Gitchell, former Health Commissioner of New York City, and many others. When men of this endorse Nuxated Iron, there can certainly be no room for doubt as to its efficacy in building up the blood. Many physicians conscientiously prescribe it into every package, and into every tablet of Nuxated Iron.

Iron is absolutely necessary to enable your blood to change food into living tissue. You must supply enough iron, no matter what you eat, or your blood merely poisons instead of doing you any good. You don't get enough organic iron out of your food, and the consequence you become weak, nervous, irritable, and all "run down," while at 45 or 50 in the absence of any organic ailment and with plenty of iron in your blood, you may still be young in feeling, full of vim, vigor and ambition—brimming over with energy and vital force.

Dr. James Francis Sullivan, formerly Physician of Bellevue Hospital (Outdoor Dept.), New York, and the Westchester County Hospital, said: "I have taken Nuxated Iron myself and prescribed it for my patients, and I can truthfully say that it excels any preparation I have ever used for building up anaemia, nervous run-down folks and increasing the red blood corpuscles thereby enriching and fortifying the blood against the ravages of disease. Contrary to general opinion, lack of iron in the blood does not necessarily mean pale skin, for sometimes the skin means your blood is not of the right kind."

What Nuxated Iron is Made From

Sworn Statement of Composition of Its Formula

Ask your doctor or druggist or any Pharmaceutical Chemist or Professor of Therapeutics in any Medical College in regard to this formula.

Iron Pentonate (Special soluble Standard Ceelite gives bulge)
Sodium Glycerophosphates U. S. P. (Nonacetic)
Calcium Glycerophosphates U. S. P. (Nonacetic)
F. E. Nux Vomica U. S. P., Ginger U. S. P.
Cascarin Bitter, Oil Cassia Cinnamon
Magnesium Carbonate Calcium Carbonate Precip. U. S. P.

Each dose of two tablets of Nuxated Iron contains one and one-half grains of organic iron in the form of iron peptonate of iron, the same standard which in our opinion possesses superior qualities to any other known form of iron. By what other makers of Iron Peptonate we know of have the same quantity of actual iron in the tablets been made into one-fortieth the cost to us, and by using metallic iron we could afford to sell Nuxated Iron for less than one-tenth what we do, but in so doing we would be compelled to use a cheap, inert, indigestible iron, and this we refuse to do, as we have made up our mind to put into every package, and into every tablet of Nuxated Iron that which we honestly believe to be the most reliable remedy for the cure of that package. Glycerophosphates used in Nuxated Iron is one of the most important tonic ingredients known. It is especially recommended to build up the nerve forces and thereby increase brain power. The glycerophosphate of soda is said to contain phosphorus in a state very similar to that in which it is found in the nerve and brain cells of man.

Nuxated Iron contains also two important ingredients of Nuxated Iron namely, Nucleo-Albumin and Glycerophosphates) are very expensive products as compared with most other tonics.

Under such circumstances the temptation to use adulteration and substitution by unscrupulous persons, is very great and the public is hereby warned to be careful and see every bottle is plainly labelled "NUXATED IRON" by the Dan Health Laboratories, Paris, London, and New York, as Dan Health is the only genuine article. Dan Health Laboratories, Inspect, Mich.

MANUFACTURERS' NOTE: Nuxated Iron, which is recommended above is not a secret remedy, but one which is well known to druggists everywhere. Unlike the other inorganic iron products, it is easily assimilated, does not injure the teeth, makes black mineral and does not constipate. Most druggists guarantee successful and entirely satisfactory results to every purchaser or they will refund your money. It is dispensed by all good druggists.

BOSTON MOTOR CAR MEN ATTEND WAR CONFERENCE

By C. F. DONNOCKER.

A party of prominent automobile men of Boston left last night for Washington to attend the hearing on Friday before the War Industries Board relative to the recent ruling, as contained in the press dispatches from Washington, to the effect that passenger car manufacturers must put their factories on a 100 per cent. war basis by January 1, 1919, and they will also consult with the committee concerning the proposed tax on second-hand cars.

Mr. John MacAlman, president of the Boston Automobile Dealers' Association, and vice-president of the National Automobile Dealers' Association; Mr. John H. Johnson, local Buick manager and director of both the above associations, and Mr. George Kimball, Hudson distributor and member of the local association composed the party, and it is a part of their mission to tell members of the various committees just what the automobile industry stands for and has done for the war, and what the dealers in this city and the whole of New England have done in the way of contributing to Liberty Loans, Red Cross, and other war necessities, and to try and impress upon the committees what the effect of such a drastic measure would be on the automobile industry of New England as well as of the United States.

CRITICISM OF DRAFTED MEN DENIED BY EMPEY

Eagle River, Wis., Aug. 15.—Arthur Guy Empey, who is spending his vacation at Tilden's resort here in the North Woods, declared he had not made any statement derogatory to the drafted men. He says that a telegram received by him from New York brands it pro-German propaganda. He declares he did not lose his chance of a commission on that account, but that he had been made a captain, and that on account of a new ruling from the adjutant's department no captains could be made from civil life and he was therefore honorably discharged.

CHICAGO MUSICIANS VOTE TO OUST ORCHESTRA HEAD

Chicago, Aug. 15.—Frederick A. Stock, director of the Chicago Symphony Orchestra, must resign and permit an American to take his place. This is the decree of the Chicago Federation of Musicians which in a set of resolutions ousts from its membership every musician who has not been naturalized. Under the union rule members of the union will not play with Mr. Stock, who is of German birth, for longer than two weeks, allowing that time to find a successor. Mr. Stock, prior to the war had applied for citizenship papers, but it is said he allowed the first applications to lapse.

COLORADO IS TO PROFIT BY KANSAS PROSPERITY

Colorado Springs, Col., Aug. 15.—Kansas citizens this Summer are well to do, according to residents of this city, and they are coming to the noted Summer resorts of Colorado in large numbers. Recently a count of motor cars was made on the Pike's Peak highway here, and out of the 140 cars counted 100 were from Kansas.

Assigned to Plattsburg

Raymond A. McCarty, son of Sergeant Lawrence McCarty of the Waltham police department, has been assigned to the training camp at Plattsburg from Boston College.

MADE MONEY HERE BUT DID NOT WISH TO FIGHT

Albany, N. Y., Aug. 15.—Stephen Sapinski, a Russian Pole, who came to Albany penniless eight years ago, and who now has a corner on some of the best real estate in town and a large business, didn't want to fight for the country that gave him an opportunity to get it. He was arrested for failing to register for the draft. United States Commissioner O'Neill told him he would look fine in a uniform. Sapinski demurred, but decided Uncle Sam's uniform much more agreeable than prison stripes.

"YELLOW STREAK" CARDS FOR THE UNPATRIOTIC

Atlanta, Aug. 15.—"Yellow-streak" cards have been printed here by the Kiwanis Club, which are to be handed to anyone attacking the Administration, the Army, Navy, or any branch of the United States Government which is working to win the war. These cards bear the following inscription:

"Nail German Lies.

"Under present conditions any man who attacks any branch of our Government has a yellow streak!"

Diagonally across the card is a broad band of yellow.

'YANKEE HAWKS' AMONG FLOOD OF NAMES

L. T. Houghton of Worcester Suggests It for Our Airmen in Service

After a run on "Eagles," "Hawks" seems the most popular name for our army and navy airmen, as suggested by AMERICAN readers. The Name Editor's mail has been flooded with nicknames sent in, out of which our Flying Corps will surely find at least one to hit the mark.

What is your suggestion?

Send it in to the Name Editor, No. 80 Summer street, Boston.

"Yankee Hawks" is the choice of L. T. Houghton, No. 997 Main street, Worcester, who writes:

"There are many kinds of American hawks and all are wonderful fighters. An eagle is a tame bird compared to a hawk. Just call them 'Hawks.'"

"America's Eyes," suggests Mrs. John W. Cantwell, of Ridgefield, N. J., adding: "America always sees everything in the right light and at the proper time." Other suggestions are:

"Yankee Bizzards"—Mrs. D. Coleman, No. 15 Nahant avenue, Revere.

"Hawk Eyes"—D. Mahoney, No. 23 Commercial street, West Lynn.

"Black Jacks Thunder Bolts"—Julia T. Perkins, Maple street, Brookfield.

"Prowling's Firefiles"—Mrs. J. Bullard, Haverhill.

"Devil Birds"—Leroy Clark, No. 35 Millet strict, Dorchester.

"Shooting Stars," "Liberty Eagles," "Searwings," "Starlarks," "Eaglettes," "Aerostars," "Liberty Stars"—Prince J. C. Maxwell, Hospital Annex, Fort Banks.

"Run Hawks"—Mrs. S. B. Stearns, Manchester, N. H.

"Eagles of Liberty"—J. D. Crain, No. 10 Charles street, Dorchester.

"American Eagles"—Mrs. F. Sheldon, Ware; and Miss Elsie M. Fleckenstein, Providence, R. I.

"American Air Wizards"—Mrs Clara Chapman, New Bedford.

"Aerial Avengers"—Parker C. Marsh, No. 4 Summer street, Hyde Park.

"Sammie Falcons" or "Junior Eagles"—Mrs. G. W. Elliott, No. 15 Linden street, Winchester.

"Boche Busters"—G. W. Richardson, Cochituate.

MAY "SCRAP THE CARS," COBB WARNS NEW YORK

New York, Aug. 15.—John Chandler Cobb, who a few weeks ago suggested the closing down of New York's surface car lines at 10 o'clock yesterday appeared before the Public Service Commission and declared that the bondholders of the New York Railway Company were about ready to tear up the rails and "scrap the cars." All this was to be done, according to Mr. Cobb, because the surface lines in New York were being operated at a loss and the bondholders were not willing to stand this loss.

BREWERIES KEEP BUSY THOUGH STATE GOES DRY

Omaha, Neb., Aug. 15.—"Bone dry" conditions have not seriously impaired the values of the five brewery plants of Omaha. Despite the fact that the State is dry, they are earning a comfortable return on their investment by the manufacture of non-intoxicating beverages. The two ages are all meeting with a popular sale. Not quite the number of men employed in former times are employed under the new regime.

RESORTS TO MUSIC TO KEEP OFF SNAKES

Altoona, Pa., Aug. 15.—Henry Atherton, a Frankstown township berry picker, plays a mouth organ as a protection against snakes when he goes into the fields. He says that if there are any copperheads, rattlers or other species about they raise their heads and sway their bodies in time with the music and do not attempt to bite. The snakes are rendered harmless for some time by the vibrations and the berry picker continues his work with security.

CLAIMS INJURIES WHEN DOOR CLOSED ON HER

The Boston Elevated has been sued for $10,000 by Eunice Peaney of Malden. She alleges that on May 25, 1918, while boarding a car in Mattapan square, she was severely injured when a door was closed upon her.

Only One Envelope Now for Wedding Invitations

The extra envelope which, since time memorial has identified wedding invitations, is doomed by the pulp and paper section of the War Industries Board. Hereafter instead of the two, only one envelope must suffice and invitations must be engraved on a single instead of a double sheet of stationery.

Moreover, only eight sizes not of the ninety or more now used can be had.

The shades of tinted stationery will also be reduced in number from thirty-five to five, including white. Correspondence cards will be held to a uniform size, and all fancy paper boxes involving a wasteful use of materials will be eliminated.

IRISH URGED BY COL. LYNCH TO HELP U. S.

London, Aug. 15.—In behalf of France, "the age long standard bearer of civilization," and America, "the home of three times more Irishmen than live in Ireland," Colonel Arthur Lynch has issued an appeal to Ireland to raise a brigade for the west front.

In the manifesto which he caused to be posted throughout Ireland he says:

"Now many of you have not a brother, father, cousin or friend in that land of freedom which has extended welcome to our race for more than 150 years and where countless Irish names are inseparably interwined with the story of her greatness.

"It is almost incredible that we Irishmen should refuse to think that the Stars and Stripes, the sacred emblem beneath whose folds Irishmen have found protection and happiness, should be dragged into the mire.

"But remember that to wish ill success to the Allies is to connive at the humiliation of the great republic of the west. But if Irishmen now rally to the side of Old Glory, then shall more their name will be held in honor in the immortal page of history.

"All I say of America is true of the great dominions of the Allies; they are all in the fight for freedom and progress. Irishmen, know you not in your hearts. I appeal to you to do your duty."

The manifesto is part of a campaign to raise 50,000 volunteers. The unit is likely to be known as "Colonel Lynch's brigade." Provision is being made to use a special uniform based on the old Irish costume. Recruits are to be absolved from duty in Ireland. Colonel Lynch said:

"Mothers whose sons are approaching the service age, have been watching the war while their sons grow up for four years, and who are now constantly awaiting the day when their sons will be fit for service, are among the most powerful forces that against recruiting or Ireland's full participation in the war."

Colonel Lynch is now conferring with the British government. He will return to Ireland in a few days.

Fond Du Lac, Wis., Aug. 15.—Patrick Brickle, the man who refused to accept a parole because he would not be permitted to spend his earnings as he pleased and also abstain from the use of liquor, has been taken to Waupun. Pat refused a pardon from the Governor on the ground that part of the pardon meant "swearing off."

MEN MOVE 6,500 TONS 17 FEET IN 25 MINUTES

Pittsburgh, Pa., Aug. 15.—Rolling into place of 6,500 tons of structural steel, representing the south span of a new bridge being built across the Allegheny river near here by the Bessemer and Lake Erie Railroad, in seventy-five minutes, was the feat accomplished by workmen of the American Bridge Company. GUARD SUNDAY'S TABERNACLE IN PROVIDENCE

Providence, Aug. 15.—The tabernacle in course of construction for the Billy Sunday campaign is guarded carefully nights as a result of a "downtown" rumor that an attempt, in the interests of liquor dealers, would be made to destroy the massive wooden structure.

Men high in liquor circles say it would be unfortunate and unjust to resort to such means, and further say they do not fear the evangelist. They point out that a recent edict by the Liquor Dealers' Association passed drastic rules governing the dispensing of liquors during the week. Despite this contention, committeemen feel that an effort will be made to destroy the structure before the dedication, which is scheduled for September 15.

Billy Sunday advocates refer to the attempts to thwart their plans as "unworthy of an American" and say there are many representative business men behind the movement.

That Billy Sunday is looking forward to a strenuous campaign of eight weeks here is apparent by a letter from Charles M. Johnson to Fletcher which said in effect that "nothing will stop me when I reach Providence." According to those in a position to know, it is said that Fletcher replied, "and they say there are many of them here, will be dealt with in their turn. Chairman Fletcher added:

"Mr. Sunday is one man who can frame words that are not misunderstood and has the courage to deliver them when they are framed. This is strictly a religious movement and, surely, will be of much benefit to all. We look forward to splendid results."

Letters from Prominent Druggists addressed to Chas. H. Fletcher.

Central Drug Co., of Detroit, Mich., says: "We consider your Castoria in a class distinct from patent medicines and commend it."

Christy Drug Stores, of Pittsburg, Pa., say: "We have sold your Castoria for so many years with such satisfactory results that we cannot refrain from saying a good word for it when we get a chance."

Jacob Bros., of Philadelphia, Pa., say: "We take pleasure in recommending Fletcher's Castoria as one of the oldest and best of the preparations of the kind upon the market."

Hess & McCann, of Kansas City, Mo., say: "Your Castoria always gives satisfaction. We have no substitute for it and only sell 'The Kind You Have Always Bought,' the original."

The Voegeli Bros., of Minneapolis, Minn., say: "We wish to say that we have at all times a large demand for Fletcher's Castoria at all of our three stores and that it gives universal satisfaction to our trade."

Polk Miller Drug Co., of Richmond, Va., says: "Your Castoria is one of the most satisfactory preparations we have ever handled. It seems to satisfy completely the public demand for such an article and is steadily creating a growing sale for itself."

P. A. Capdau, of New Orleans, La., says: "We handle every good home remedy demanded by the public and while our shelves are thoroughly equipped with the best of drugs and proprietary articles, there are few if any which have the unceasing sale that your Castoria has."

M. C. Dow, of Cincinnati, Ohio, says: "When people in increasing numbers purchase a remedy and continue buying it for years; when it passes the fad or experimental stage and has household necessity, then it can be said its worth has been firmly established. We can and do gladly offer this kind of commendation to Fletcher's Castoria."

THE CENTAUR COMPANY, NEW YORK CITY.

The Kind You Have Always Bought.

THIS is the caution applied to the public announcement of Castoria that has been manufactured under the supervision of Chas. H. Fletcher for over 30 years—the genuine Castoria. We respectfully call the attention of fathers and mothers when purchasing Castoria to see that the wrapper bears his signature in black. When the wrapper is removed the same signature appears on both sides of the bottle in red. Parents who have used Castoria for their little ones in the past years need no warning against counterfeits and imitations, but our present duty is to call the attention of the younger generation to the great danger of introducing into their families spurious medicines.

It is to be regretted that there are people who are now engaged in the nefarious business of putting up and selling all sorts of substitutes, or what should more properly be termed counterfeits, for medicinal preparations not only for adults, but worse yet, for children's medicines. It therefore devolves on the mother to scrutinize closely what she gives her child. Adults can do that for themselves but the child has to rely on the mother's watchfulness.

What Private Ownership Did to N. Y. Transit System

People Here Waiting More or Less Patiently for Public Control to Remedy Their Lesser Evils

While the good people of Boston are waiting, with what patience they can command, for the evil conditions into which their street transit system has been reduced under private management to be remedied under public operation and control, they may be able to gather some comfort from a reminder of the still greater evils which this same private control of public utilities has brought upon the city of New York.

We ask the readers of this newspaper to pause a moment and consider what life would be in New York without the subways.

We ask you to consider also what was taken out of the lives of those who lived in New York between 1864 and 1904, when there were no subways. We ask you to estimate the loss in hours taken out of the short lives of millions of people who lived in New York in those forty years and were compelled to travel on the crowded surface lines, going like snails, to and from their work, or were compelled, in order to avoid travelling on these surface lines, to live in the crowded downtown sections.

The reason we ask you to consider these questions is because the people of New York were deprived unnecessarily of the incalculable benefits of rapid transit for more than forty years. THOUSANDS OF MILLIONS OF HOURS HAVE BEEN TAKEN OUT OF THE LIVES OF THE PEOPLE OF NEW YORK BY THIS UNNECESSARY DELAY.

Now, what caused the delay? The necessity for the subway and the popular demand for it arose in 1864, more than a generation ago. The story is told in a very interesting and valuable book entitled "Fifty Years of Rapid Transit," by James Blaine Walker, who himself has been a public official connected with the rapid transit developments. A New Yorker named Wilson, while in London, had observed the building and operation of the underground tramway there. When he returned to New York he recognized the necessity of relieving the congestion of her streets and providing her people with means of rapid transit. Mr. Wilson undertook the labor of giving New York an underground transportation system. After great effort he completed the preliminaries, interested some of the leading men of the city in the project, and presented to the Legislature a bill authorizing the construction of the subways. In his book Mr. Walker says:

"With such backing, the new project received the attention of press and public. Everybody began to talk about riding underground, and there was a great demand for information as to the operation of the London road."

In the Legislature, however, the Wilson project was not received with enthusiasm. The corporations of those days had great influence with the legislators, and as no corporation already operating favored the new scheme it got short shrift in the Railroad Committee of the Senate, to whom it had been referred. In two weeks after the bill had been introduced it was reported adversely by the Committee on Railroads. The obliging Senate adopted the report on the day it was made, April 8, 1864.

News of this summary action on a project in which New York city was so vitally interested aroused general indignation. Petitions were circulated asking for a reconsideration of the bill, and the press denounced the action of the Legislature in unmeasured terms. On April 11 the New York Times said editorially:

The defeat of the Underground Railroad in the Legislature, coupled, as it was, with the rejection of Mayor Gunther's proposition to compel the street railroads to pay 10 per cent. of their receipts to the city treasury, is a fresh and alarming illustration of the enormous power over our property and comfort which is now wielded by the omnibus proprietors, railroad corporations and political jobbers. The Legislature on which we have been in the habit of relying seems to have surrendered itself completely to their hands.

The Underground Railroad promised to be an immense boon to the city. It was perfectly feasible. A similar road has been in successful operation in London for one year. It encroaches on no vested interest; takes no one's land or house; interferes with no traffic or thoroughfare; offers cheap, comfortable and speedy transit from one end of the island to the other; requires no money from the public; will add nothing to municipal taxation, and is undertaken by men of the highest character and standing, both social and commercial. In short, there is not a single objection to be made to it on the part of the public or the government, and yet the committee of the Senate has reported against it, under the lead of a Senator from this city, and it has been laid on the table, for what reason is not stated. We wonder how much longer the people of this city will permit themselves to be thus plundered by men who are ostensibly their servants and dependents.

Who would expect to see such an editorial in the New York Times today? But such plain speaking was of so little avail that for forty years the great established corporations prevented the subway from being built by their control of Legislatures at Albany.

Thus, for more than forty years the public service corporations of New York controlled by private individuals for private profit held back progress and destroyed enterprise in the most vital concern of progress, and caused the time and the vital reserves of the producers of New York to be uselessly consumed in the congested, overcrowded, slow-going surface cars. This is merely one of a thousand instances which might be cited in proof of the assertion that private operation of public service utilities like the railroads, the street railways, the telegraph and telephone, and the gas and electric light supplies, has held back enterprise and prevented progress in this country.

It has often been claimed in behalf of private operation of these public service utilities that the private capital took the risk in these enterprises and went forward when the government would not have gone forward. There is no greater lie than this statement. Private enterprises scarcely took any risk in forming the great public service corporations. Where the risk was great public money always took it. The railroads were built across the prairies by public money. So generous and even reckless were the people of cities and towns and counties in the appropriation of the public moneys for the building of the eastern railroads that it was thought necessary to forbid these political bodies from making further appropriations, by constitutional amendments, and the constitution of New York now forbids a city or town to contribute to a public service corporation enterprise.

A BAD PRIVATE NEVER MAKES A GOOD OFFICER

If you are a member of the Home Guard or any local military organization, you are not a good American if you endeavor to cause dissension in the body.

Perhaps you may feel that the men who are officers are not as competent as they should be; maybe they are not, but these men have been chosen as your officers, and it is up to you to be loyal to them, not only as individuals, but as men representing your government.

The object of all such organizations is to get men to do work which otherwise would have to be done by army men, who are needed for more important affairs.

ELLA WHEELER WILCOX'S ARTICLE

In Which She Tells of Mingling with Young Boys Blinded in Battle, of Their Pranks and Her Hope That They Will Be Made Useful When Peace Comes

By Ella Wheeler Wilcox

Copyright, 1918, Star Company.

Tours, France, July 12.

THE hardest ordeal in the whole war situation which faced me over here was association with the blind. Doing whatever I could to distract, entertain and benefit those wounded youths, who had lost their sight, and maintaining a cheerful manner while with them, I nevertheless found myself overwhelmed with depression for hours afterward.

They were, without exception, marvels of optimism and seeming cheerfulness.

The special centre with which my friend and I were most closely associated was at Dijon, and there were twenty blind boys there under twenty-five. One youth had lost both eyes and his right arm—yet he was proud to show us how he was learning to make brushes with his left hand, and that he was able to do many other things unassisted.

Pranks of Blind

There was always the sound of laughter, singing, and merry whistling among these boys; and when we took them out to walk, or to concerts, they played youthful pranks like reaching out and tapping one another with a cane, as we turned on crossings, and conscious of one another's proximity by senses more subtle than our own. Yet, always after leaving them, we felt they must have been playing a part, as we had been with our assumed cheerfulness, and that they must be, when alone, overwhelmed with the tragedy of their young lives.

But now there has come to us in Tours a revelation which casts a brilliant ray of light upon our troubled thoughts regarding the blind. Through that great soul, Leon Denis, the author of rare books of religious philosophy, we were privileged to meet the blind composer and playwright of Tours, Gastan Chauvigne, now thirty-nine, and deprived of his sight for the last twelve years. Mr. Chauvigne's face is a revelation. One cannot meet him even casually on the street, walking with his beautiful and devoted wife, without a feeling of uplift.

Endowed by nature with manly beauty, his face is now glorified from the awakened spirit within. He radiates light, joy of life, and intense consciousness of worlds which we who have eyes do not see.

"You must not pity the blind," Mr. Chauvigne said to me. "You must only bestow on us the consideration which enables us to be established and useful members of society, and provides suitable opportunities for our abilities.

"Since I lost my sight, at twenty-seven, I have, from the very beginning, felt the development of new powers, interior qualities of mind and spirit, which have given me a joy never before experienced. I believe this is true of most blind people. Of course there are exceptions, but those exceptions would have been discontented individuals even with the possession of all their senses. I know I am a very happy man, and my only desire on earth is to extend my field of usefulness."

Mr. Chauvigne and his wife work among the blind a certain number of days each week, teaching them to read and write, and aiding them in their various occupations. A peculiar power came to this gifted poet and composer a few years after he lost his sight. His right hand and arm began to tingle and quiver, and at the same time he was mentally impressed to take a pencil and paper, and without the aid of his brain, his hand rapidly wrote messages which contained counsel and instruction of a high order, and which were signed "The Spirit of Lessons."

Mr. Chauvigne believes the messages emanate from a great Manu, or invisible helper, a spirit who once lived on earth. The messages have brought him new knowledge of worlds beyond, and have helped to develop the wonderfully inspiring personality which affects every one he meets.

Personally I feel under a lasting debt to Gastan Chauvigne. He has lifted from my heart a heavy burden of useless sorrow for the blind, and left in its place a more vivid impulse to help improve the conditions surrounding them. And he has become one more link in my golden chain of evidence of the union of humanity—with worlds divine and the power to communicate with disembodied intelligences who people space.

The words of such a man as Chauvigne have weight, because of his intellectual supremacy. He is the author of two plays which had successful presentations in France in 1914. One, a comedy in three acts, entitled "Marion Marionette." He is also the composer of numerous musical gems for the piano, for the voice and the 'cello; and one symphony in three parts dedicated to Monsignor Oury, Archevque d'Alger. This blind author-composer is known and beloved throughout Touraine, that most beautiful and highly cultured portion of France, where the most perfect French diction is to be heard. It is like listening to exquisite music to hear the cultured people of Tours speak.

Future Employment

When to the beauty of his voice and diction the blind genius of Tours added the beautiful philosophy which sustains him and uplifts him beyond the plane of those possessed of their five senses, one with ears to hear and a soul to realize cannot fail to be impressed.

At the end of this devastating war, America, like all the other countries engaged in it, will have to meet its problem of an army of blind soldiers. It is well for us not to waste our vital forces in aimless pity, but to save them for the reconstruction of our industrial system, so that these men may be self-supporting and self-respecting.

It was reported in Paris some months ago that one of our multi-millionaires was about to establish a large enterprise wherein the blind would be employed winding armatures, a work which has been discovered they were especially fitted for.

It is to be hoped that many other occupations will be discovered for the employment of the blind, who will be with us in large numbers for the next sixty or seventy years. While we can do much for them in material ways, they can do much for us spiritually, if we will but listen and believe.

CHILDREN FEEL THE EFFECT OF WAR

By Clara E. Laughlin

A FRIEND recently returned from Paris was telling me, the other day, things she thought I would notice first, if I were there now, as being most markedly different from the Paris I knew in peace times and in the early weeks of war.

"Perhaps the very first difference you would observe," she said, "is that the city housekeeping is not up to its old standard; streets are not so rigorously scrubbed in the wee sma' hours of every morning; you would sometimes see refuse waiting removal—whereas you never knew, aforetime, what became of it; the trees are not so well tended and pruned; and so on.

"When the siren screams, most people seek cellars. Air raids nearly always occur at night, and everybody goes—half-waking and by a kind of subconscious impulse—to his accustomed 'hole in the ground.' But the long-range bombardments have been by day. And there is always a possibility of air raiders in daytime. So the signs are put up to show where shelter may be sought in a sudden emergency."

When Paris Sirens Scream

And another friend, writing from Paris a month ago, said:

"You would smile if you could see me in the dead o' night when the sirens scream; how methodically, almost automatically, I don slippers and dressing gown, reach for Pussy in her basket-bed, and descend to the depths—where I sit, cross, like all my neighbors, at the disturbance of my slumbers. That is the attitude of nearly all adults—not much different from what it used to be when we had to put up with German boorishness before the war. But I hate the effect on children—dragged out of their sleep, night after night (sometimes), and hustled down cellar for an hour, or two, or three. The effect on their nerves is bad."

It is indeed! Tiny child friends of mine in England have been changed from rosy, romping youngsters into "bundles of nerves" by the terror of night air raids that never touched them, but rained death in their vicinity, to the accompaniment of noise enough to drive anybody insane.

Childish Minds

Childish minds are over-stimulated and they have never been before in all the course of human history.

You and I also are quivering with excitement, anxiety, suspense, and what not, the live-long day and age-long nights. But we are supremely busy, withal. There is a staggering amount of work that we must do.

The children are excited—and have nothing to do!

They have only their play—endless play. Their whole relation to life is through their play and through the brief contacts they have with the adult world when they are being fed or otherwise hastily served.

MORTALITY LAW OF OUR CITIES IS KNOWN

By Garrett P. Serviss

HIGH BRIDGE, whose demolition is drawing near, was one of the boasted architectural and engineering glories of New York in the middle of the last century and, like the now almost forgotten "distributing reservoir" that stood well within the time-range of the present generation on the ground now occupied by the Public Library and Bryant Park, it served as a choice scene for real as well as imaginary romance (see Hoffman's fine tale of "The Man in the Reservoir"). Its approaching fate draws attention to the great law of death in life, or of life in death, which governs cities as it governs all other organisms. The buildings of a city are like the cells of an animated body—they are continually decaying and being replaced as long as the organism of which they are constituent parts grows and flourishes, and when it ceases to grow, and loses its vitality, both decay and perish together, the whole dissolving because the parts are no longer renewed.

We are apt to take a too sentimental view of the destruction of ancient landmarks, blaming the restlessness of modern progress, but forgetting that "modern" means simply actual, and that to allow the relics of the past to obstruct the needs of the present is as fatal as to have the life-blood clogged with dead cells.

World Policy

We are wrong also in imagining that the spirit of progress is more destructive today than it ever was in the past. Cities have always grown upon the ruins of older cities, as forests grow upon the mould of former forests. There are many Romes underneath the Rome of today, just as there were many Troys under the walls and pavements of the Troy of the Iliad.

The colossal architectural piles of Egypt have remained partly because some of them were too massive to be readily torn down, partly because a kind of awe hovered over them in the presence of the strange and giant sculptured forms that seemed to guard them, and partly because the current of progress turned away from Egypt and left them, like the water-marked walls of an abandoned canyon, whose river has found a new course, to the slow, smoothing hand of time.

But the recent fate of the exquisite temples of Philae, mercilessly drowned by the dammed waters which modern agriculture exacts from the Nile, shows how fragile is the mantle of respect and admiration covering the art treasures of the Pharaohs.

To the Nile

If an Arabian magician could transport New York to the banks of the Nile and let it settle down, a vast human cloud over the site of ancient Memphis, it would eat up the mighty pyramids, as once it began to eat the towering basalt pillars of the Palisades.

What Private Ownership Did to N. Y. Transit System

Public money built the Erie Canal, and it was the private managers of the railroads which deprived the public of the use of this great canal. It was only since the government took the railroads that a serious effort has been made to restore to its full usefulness the Erie Canal, and that effort is being made by Director-General McAdoo, the man whom President Wilson put in charge of the railroads. The private management of the railroads prevented the building of the Panama Canal for years and years, and it was not built until the government took the financial risks and defied the power of the railroad lobby. It is a well known practice of our corporations to buy inventions in order to suppress them.

But great as are these evils of private operation of our public service corporations, the greatest evil of all is the control which the men who run these corporations exercise over our government. A government "of, for and by the people" is a farce while our powerful public service corporations are in private hands. Only occasionally do you get a government like the Wilson administration that is free from their influence. The power of such an administration is of brief duration, and it does not take long for the corporation lobby and for the courts to undo all its good work. The United States Supreme Court has struck down already one of the greatest progressive laws which this administration passed, namely, that law which sought to protect women and children from being overworked in our factories.

This great menace to the safety of democracy in America is gradually being driven to the wall. Our national government has taken possession of the railroads, the telephone and telegraph companies and the express companies. The cities of San Francisco and Boston have taken their street railways.

Let the good work go on.
